Vote the Straight Democratic Ticket!

If you believe in REACTION, vote the republican ticket.

If you prefer a MOSSY BACK to PROGRESS, vote the republican ticket.

If you believe that HUMANITY should STAND STILL, vote the republican ticket.

If you believe that the RICH should FATTEN on the labor of the POOR, vote the republican ticket.

If you want to go back to the old pre-war system of MAKING THE RICH RICHER and THE POOR POORER, vote the republican ticket.

If you believe the GANG should rule the American people, vote the republican ticket.

If you believe in STANDING PAT, in STOPPING THE WHEELS OF SOCIAL PROGRESS, vote the republican ticket.

If you believe in EXPLOITING HUMAN LABOR FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE FEW, vote the republican ticket.

If you believe that the vast natural and economic resources of America should be EXPLOITED BY THE INSIDE GANG, vote the republican ticket.

If you believe that the AVERAGE AMERICAN is an instrument designed by PROVIDENCE for the profit of GOOD REPUBLICANS, vote the republican ticket.

If you believe in maintaining the social STATUS QUO until the crack of doom, vote the republican ticket.

If you believe that VESTED INTERESTS and PROTECTIVE TARIFF are the most sacred institutions of America, vote the Republican ticket.

? If you don't know how to LAUGH or WEEP, if your BLOOD is as HOT as an OYSTER'S, if your SOCIAL SYMPATHIES are akin to those of a JELLYFISH, don't fail to vote the republican ticket.

Above all, if you are a SUCKER and easily swallow PLATITUDINOUS BUNCOMBE, vote the republican ticket.

Mr. Voter:

It is not a question of INDIVIDUALS but of PRINCIPLES. The republicans are the Tories and Junkers of America. They are out of sympathy with the liberal ideas unchained by the war. They are out of sympathy with social progress. They are complacently ignorant of the great economic and social problems that confront humanity. Their creed is STAND PAT, their prayer is HIGHER DIVIDENDS, their god is EXCESS PROFITS. They are conspiring to send America back to the pre-war days of uninterrupted, unregulated exploitation of America's resources and America's manhood. If you believe in American democracy, if you believe in the liberation of humanity, if you believe in a just policy of reconstruction after the war.

Keep the Republican Party Out of Power!

It is too late now for the average citizen to make any extended investigation into the merits of the many candidates running for office. His mind is confused with the arguments for and against candidates, most of them submitted by professional politicians.

Head and shoulders above any other consideration, looms the stirring appeal of President Wilson to the voters of the country to stand behind him, to re-elect democrats to the house and senate.

If peace negotiations fail, the war will be in progress. In that event the next congress will be a war congress, charged with legislative responsibility for the mightiest war the United States has ever engaged in, charged with the support of an army immensely greater than that now in the field. If the war has ended before the next congress convenes, then the new congress will be charged with the legislative responsibility of the United States for the reconstruction, not only of this country, but of the world.

In this crisis, there is but one thing the citizen can do. He can vote so as to make sure that in dealing with the problems of war or problems of reconstruction and readjustment, President Wilson shall be supported by a congress in full sympathy with him. It will be especially necessary if the congress turns out to be a reconstruction congress.

That state of affairs can only be brought about if he continues to have a congress of his own political party acting with him. For once voters should forget the issues that divide parties in national elections and vote for William B. Walton for senator and Granville A. Richardson for congress, not only because they are able and worthy men, but, most important of all, because they will give President Wilson that support and that full sympathy necessary for the welfare of the nation. It is simply a question of electing men who will see eye to eye with the president in the difficult and as yet unforeseeable path on which he will enter, whether he has to lead a new campaign as commander in chief of our armies and navies, or whether he has to play America's hand in the reconstruction of the world and direct the readjustment of his own country.

Stand by the President:

The democrats of New Mexico, running Walton for the senate and Richardson for congress, are confident that they are affording the voters an opportunity to cast their ballots for men of the hour in this state. Walton is true and tried. As a member of congress for two years he has demonstrated his right to promotion to the senate. His opponent, Fall, has played to the grand stand for seven long years. Fall poses as a leader in national politics—and to maintain that pose the Senator from Texas has been required to neglect to do anything for New Mexico. El Paso wants Fall back in the senate, and for obvious reasons.

Granville A. Richardson, the democratic candidate for congress, is so far superior in statesmanlike qualifications to his opponent Hernandez, that comparisons are not required. A lawyer of thirty years experience, on the bench for seven years, an influential man in his home town of Roswell and in the state at large, Judge Richardson will honor New Mexico in congress. Hernandez has nothing upon which he can base a claim for the high office to which he aspires.

Just a word about Felix Garcia, democratic candidate for governor. The republicans have tried desperately to find a point upon which to attack him, and by their silence admit that his character and reputation can not be assailed. Garcia claims to be nothing more than a successful business man, who has done work for the state, on the tax commission, on the district draft board, and in other places of importance, when his services were required. Garcia's opponent is a politician. He has been a candidate for office so often that the voters are tired of his name. Larrazolo admits he received $2,500 for rendering an opinion to the state a year ago in a boundary suit question. The opinion must have been a wonder. The ordinary man works a year and feels like a Rockefeller if he earns $1,500 or $1,800. Note the difference. If you want a politician for governor, vote for Larrazolo—if you want a business man, who will talk business to you when you call at the governor's office, and who will look after the state's business in a businesslike way, then vote for Felix Garcia.
